Complementary Oncology

Western medicine provides powerful tools to eradicate cancer. Traditional Chinese Medicine (TCM) is a dynamic complement to western treatment that integrates mind, body and spirit.

Recent clinical trials in the United States and China show that acupuncture improves patients' ability to complete treatment and reduces many of the common side effects of treatment.

Practitioners at Point of Health Acupuncture have specialized training and experience in complementary oncology. We understand the unique needs and concerns of patients undergoing or recovering from surgery, chemotherapy and radiation treatment. We work with your oncology team to ensure the safety and efficacy of both western and TCM treatment.

Common related conditions:
